

Who are we?

Welcome to the Public Sector Innovation Team at the Canada School of Public Service!

We are an incubator within the Federal Government, exploring new technologies with our partners to change the future of public service operations. We learn by doing and in adopting resourcefulness, creativity and ingenuity, we tackle horizontal issues within the public service. We apply these skills to disruptive technologies including, but not limited to, Artificial Intelligence, Machine Learning, Natural Language Processing and Metadata, to offer exploration, testing and advisory services so public servants can comprehend the art of the possible.